Biografie

Naomi Jacobs is currently a PhD student at the Department of Philosophy & Ethics and Human-Technology Interaction at Eindhoven University of Technology. Her research focuses on technologies for health-related behaviour change in vulnerable people. Previously she obtained a bachelor-degree in Philosophy at the University of Amsterdam, and completed a Research Master in Philosophy at Utrecht University.